Selected Poems of Léopold Sédar Senghor

Abiola Irele,1977-09-01 Calixthe Beyala Nicki Hitchcott,Associate Professor and Reader in African Francophone Studies Nicki Hitchcott,2006-01-01 The most successful female writer from Francophone Africa Calixthe Beyala occupies an unusual place in French literary and popular culture Her novels are bestsellers and she appears regularly on French television yet a conviction for plagiarism has tarnished her reputation Thus she is both an authentic African author and a proven literary fake In Calixthe Beyala Nicki Hitchcott considers representations of Beyala in the media critical responses to her writing and Beyala s efforts to position herself as a champion of women s rights Hitchcott pays equal attention to Beyala s novels tracing their explorations of the role of migration in the creation of personal identity

Theories of Africans Christopher L.

Miller,1990 Situating literature and anthropology in mutual interrogation Miller s book actually performs what so many of us only call for Nowhere have all the crucial issues been brought together with the sort of critical sophistication it displays Henry Louis Gates Jr a superb cross disciplinary analysis Y Mudimbe Out in Africa Chantal J. Zabus,2013 Homosexuality was and still is thought to be quintessentially un African Yet in this book Chantal Zabus examines the anthropological cultural and literary representations of male and female same sex desire from early colonial contacts between Europe and Africa in the nineteenth century to the present Covering a broad geographical spectrum from Mali to South Africa and from Senegal to Kenya and adopting a comparative approach encompassing two colonial languages English and French and some African languages Out in Africa charts developments in Sub Saharan African texts and contexts through the work of 7 colonial and some 25 postcolonial writers

Postcolonial Hauntologies: African Women's Discourses of the Female Bod Ayo A.

Coly,2019-06-01 Postcolonial Hauntologies is an interdisciplinary and comparative analysis of critical literary visual and performance texts by women from different parts of Africa While contemporary critical thought and feminist theory have largely integrated the sexual female body into their disciplines colonial representations of African women s sexuality haunt contemporary postcolonial African scholarship which by maintaining a culture of avoidance about women s sexuality generates a discursive conscription that ultimately holds the female body hostage Ayo A Coly employs the concept of hauntology and ghostly matters to formulate an explicative framework in which to examine postcolonial silences surrounding the African female body as well as a theoretical framework for discerning the elusive and cautious presences of female sexuality in the texts of African women. In illuminating the pervasive silence about the sexual female body in postcolonial African scholarship Postcolonial Hauntologies challenges hostile responses to critical and artistic voices that suggest the African female body represents sacred ideological discursive ground on which one treads carefully if at all. Coly demonstrates how ghosts from the colonial past are countered by discursive engagements with explicit representations of women's sexuality and bodies that emphasize African women's power and autonomy.

The Poetry of Léopold Sédar Senghor

Globalizing the Postcolony

Claire H. Griffiths, 2010-12-18 Globalizing the Postcolony: Contesting Discourses of Gender and Development in Francophone Africa is a study of development in the former French colonies of West Africa. It takes as its starting point the international community's reporting on human and social development and gender in the developing areas which began systematically in 1990 and which has provided a framework for policy making in this field. International reports suggest that the francophone African countries have been experiencing low levels of social development throughout the past two decades. These levels fall dramatically when the factor of gender is introduced to the point where statistically speaking francophone African women have had less access to social development than any other population in the world. This study analyzes current thinking on the challenges facing gender and development in Africa before moving on to examine the historical factors marking the gender and development profile of the francophone West African region. Through an analysis of gender politics in the region from pre-colonial to postcolonial times the book examines the gradual incursion of exogenous gender policies into the region throughout the 20th century. The discussion concludes by arguing that despite the tendency of the international community and their colonial administrative forebears to pursue one size fits all solutions to what they identified as the main development challenges of the day the impact of standardized solutions remains subject to the unique historical and cultural context in which they are implemented. Adapting formula driven policies to unique cultural contexts constitutes a major challenge for gender and development politics in the second decade of the new century. Meanwhile the book coincides with the introduction of a new international development agenda in Africa articulated around issues of security and globalization. While civil unrest continues to destabilize vast regions of the continent making the prospects for the future uncertain.
