

INTRODUCTION: Evidence has been found to indicate that living things have changed gradually during their natural history. The study of fossils as well as embryology, biochemistry, and comparative anatomy provides evidence for evolution. In this lab activity you will learn about homologous, analogous, vestigial structures, fossils, embryology and biochemistry and their significance in evolution theory.

PROCEDURE:

HOMOLOGOUS STRUCTURES:

1. Carefully examine the drawings of the bones. Look for similarities among the various animals.
 - a. COLOR each part of the human arm a different color using the following key.

Humerus: Yellow	Carpals: Red	Radius: Blue	Ulna: Green
Metacarpals: Purple	Phalanges: Orange
 - b. In Table 1 (question #2 on the Answer Sheet) describe the function of each set of bones and answer the question.
 - c. Answer question number 3.

ANALOGOUS STRUCTURES:

1. Examine the butterfly wing and the bird wing. Answer questions 4-6 on the answer sheet.

VESTIGIAL STRUCTURES:

1. Gradual changes have occurred through time that have in some cases reduced or removed the function of some body structures and organs. The penguin's wings and the leg bones of snakes are examples of this phenomena.
2. The cave fish and minnow are related, but the cave fish is blind. Answer questions 7-8 on the answer sheet.

Figure 3

3. Read the list of human vestigial structures in Table 2 (question #9). Suggest a possible function for each structure and explain why it became vestigial. Then complete questions 10-12.

EVIDENCE FROM EMBRYOLOGY:

1. Evolution occurs slowly. In most cases, it is not possible to observe evolution in progress. However, evidence of evolution can be found by observing the early stages of development in vertebrates. All vertebrate embryos start out similar in appearance. This similarity has led scientists to think that these organisms have a common ancestor. The diagrams below illustrate stages in the embryonic development of a fish, a pig, and a human.
2. Study the diagrams below and answer the questions 13 & 14 on the answer sheet.

The Molecular Life of Diatoms Angela Falciatore, Thomas Mock, 2022-05-11 Diatoms are the most species rich group of algae and they contribute about 20% of annual global carbon fixation. They play major roles in ocean food webs and global biogeochemical cycles. They are also a target of the biotechnology industry because of their nano patterned silica cell wall and high lipid content. Diatoms have received increasing attention as more genomes became available and because of the development of genome editing tools such as the CRISPR Cas9 technology which has made diatoms as genetically tractable as well established biological model species. This book provides an overview on diatom molecular biology. It brings together international leading experts in the field to discuss the latest data and developments from genes to ecosystems. As the understanding of diatoms is currently experiencing a step change it is critical to allow for synergistic approaches on diverse aspects of diatom biology and evolution. The book offers fundamental insights into the molecular life of diatoms at the same time new scientific concepts are developed based on the application of the latest molecular tools and genomic information to explore the fascinating lifestyle of diatoms.

Stamos, 2011-09-23 Evolution and the Big Questions David N. Stamos. Evolution and the Big Questions delivers what its title promises you get to look at all of the issues such as race and ethics and religion that make the study of evolution so interesting and more than just a science. The book is written in a clear and friendly manner and deserves a very wide readership. Michael Ruse Florida State University. This provocative text considers whether evolutionary explanations can be used to clarify some of life's biggest questions. It offers a lively, informative and timely look at a wide variety of key issues facing all of us today including questions of race, sex, gender, the nature of language, religion, ethics, knowledge, consciousness and ultimately the meaning of life. Some of the questions examined are: Did evolution make men and women fundamentally different? Is the concept of race merely a social construction? Is morality including universal human rights a mass delusion? Can religion and evolution really be harmonized? Does evolution render life meaningless? Designed for students and anyone with an interest in the relationship between evolutionary heritage and human nature, the text takes an interdisciplinary approach and offers direction for further reading and research. Each chapter presents a main topic together with discussion of related ideas.
