Experts,2020-02-04 Integrated Safety and Risk Assessment for Medical Devices and Combination Products Shayne C. Gad,2020-02-24 While the safety assessment biocompatibility of medical devices has been focused on issues of local tissue tolerance irritation sensitization cytotoxicity and selected quantal effects genotoxicity and acute lethality since first being regulated in the late 1950s this has changed as devices assumed a much more important role in healthcare and became more complex in both composition and in their design and operation Add to this that devices now frequently serve as delivery systems for drugs and that drugs may be combined with devices to improve device performance and the problems of ensuring patient safety with devices has become significantly more complex A part of this requirements for ensuring safety once based on use of previously acceptable materials largely polymers and metals have come to requiring determining which chemical entities are potentially released from a device into patients and how much is released Then an appropriate and relevant yet also conservative risk assessment must be performed for each identified chemical structure The challenges inherent in meeting the current requirements are multifold and this text seeks to identify understand and solve all of them Identify and verify the most appropriate available data As in most cases such data is for a different route of exposure transform it for use in assessing exposure by the route of interest As the duration and rate of exposure to moieties released from a device are most frequently different longer than what available data speaks to transformation across tissue is required As innate and adaptive immune responses are a central part of device patient interaction assessing potential risks on this basis are required Incorporating assessments for special populations such as neonates Use of Q SAR Quantitative Structure Activity Relationships modeling in assessments Performance and presentation of integrative assessments covering all potential biologic risks Appendices will contain summarized available biocompatibility data for commonly used device materials polymers and metals and safety assessments on the frequently seen moieties in extractions from devices

Integrated Marine Biosphere Research: Ocean Sustainability, Under Global Change, for the Benefit of Society Carol Robinson, Annette Breckwoldt, Alistair James Hobday, Eugene J. Murphy, Prateep Kumar Nayak, Alice Newton, 2025-11-11. Interdisciplinary research spanning natural and social sciences and society is needed to inform decision making for sustainable use and conservation of marine resources and services. The Integrated Marine Biosphere Research (IMBeR) project is an interdisciplinary global environmental change research network with the mission to promote integrated marine research and enable capabilities for developing and implementing ocean sustainability options within and across the natural and social sciences and communicate relevant information and knowledge needed by society to secure sustainable, productive and healthy oceans. To achieve this mission, the IMBeR science plan identifies three objectives which inform all IMBeR activities, including the 2019 IMBeR Future Oceans2 open science conference:

- 1 Understanding and quantifying the state and variability of marine ecosystems
- 2 Improving scenarios, predictions and projections of future ocean human systems at multiple scales
- 3 Improving and achieving sustainable ocean governance

This Research Topic welcomes submissions including perspective and opinion papers, policy briefs, original research articles and reviews related to any of the three interconnected IMBeR objectives. These submissions could cover:

- 1 the mechanisms of natural climate variability and anthropogenic global change and impacts on marine biogeochemical cycles, species and ecosystems and human well-being and livelihoods
- 2 modelling studies providing quantitative projections and predictions of future coupled human-marine ecosystems including human well-being and livelihoods, governance processes and infrastructure at global, regional and local scales
- 3 syntheses of integrated research highlighting key knowledge gaps, recommendations for future action and quantification of the impact of interdisciplinary networks and capacity building activities and 4 papers related to improving the science policy society interface of marine research and aiding transition towards sustainable ocean and coastal governance including provision and implementation of trade off options for adaptation and mitigation improving research co design and co production mechanisms and ocean literacy understanding of the role of economic social cultural and political norms and values in marine governance and integration of human behaviour and decision making into global regional and local models The Topic Editors Carol Robinson Annette Breckwoldt Alistair Hobday Eugene Murphy Prateep Nayak and Alice Newton declare that they are members of the IMBeR scientific steering committee or IMBeR Human Dimensions Working Group and are collaborating with the IMBeR research community Achieving Water-Energy-Food Nexus
