

Barriers to Trade

The harmonization of national export and import regulations, free trade in regional blocs, and the goals of governments have led to the international-trade possibilities for the benefit of their own economies. Over the last 50 years, there have been various international free-trade, multi-regional blocs, and trading blocs. Examples of these blocs include the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA), the World Trade Organization (WTO), the European Union (EU), and the Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation (APEC) forum.

However, barriers to international trade exist, and the economic adjustment process has been made that would adjust supply and demand.
