SAFETY WARNING

About Photosensitive Seizures

A very small percentage of people may experience a seizure when exposed to certain visual triggers, including flashing lights or patterns that may appear in video games. These people who have history of seizures or epilepsy may have an undiagnosed condition that can cause these "photosensitive epileptic seizures" when watching video games.

These seizures may have a variety of symptoms, including high heartbeats, altered states, eye or face twitching, jerking or shaking of arms or legs, disorientation, confusion, or temporary loss of consciousness. Seizures may also cause loss of consciousness or convulsions that can lead to injury from falling down or striking nearby objects. Immediately stop playing and consult a doctor if you experience any of these symptoms. Parents should speak to their doctor about the risks of playing video games and encourage their children to take breaks. If you experience these seizures, the risk of photosensitive epileptic seizures may be reduced by taking the following precautions:

- Play in a well-lit room.
- Do not play where you are drowsy or fatigued.

If you or any of your relatives have a history of seizures or epilepsy, consult a doctor before playing.
