Abstract - This article gives information about the writing method of Afghan-born American writer Khaled Hosseini, moreover, discusses the human relations and their importance in the society through his novel “The Kite Runner”. The reasonable contrast between two Afghan ethnic groups, Hazara and Pashtun stands alone in the work and this phenomenon can demonstrate the country's forever customs and traditions. Hosseini as a representative of his nation's culture and history can fulfill his task successfully considering the acceptable consumption of real, factual, historical and fictional information. The relationship among a reader, the writer and the main characters makes invisible imaginary triangulation while accepting inborn humanistic qualities one asks himself/herself the same question “Who is guilty?” for the fate of the poor country Afghanistan. The writer's talent lies on his clear cognition that the children who do not possess childhood, the women who cannot feel feminine, the men who never sleeps in peace and the country where a heap of ruins spread, all these unfortunate continuous pictures, are in a hurry and do not know how to stop, where to stop and when to stop. The major theme of the novel is the celebration of humanism/human relations in the bombing country. Hosseini through his main personages Amir, Hassan and Baba can point out that Afghan people are heroes in their blood, and it is shame to blame them for the actions happening in their land.

The history never forgets the tragic events of September 11, 2001 that destroyed the pure understanding of Islamic belief and fueled the notion of terrorism. Since then readers from all over the world search for information related to Islam, terrorism and conflicts in the Middle East. Afghanistan and its population are wrongly accused for the accidents causing bombs by terrorists or other authorities in any part of the world. These innocent guilty people are still paying for the destructive actions happening with their awful conditions and terrified destiny. In reality the inhabitants of this poor country want the peace land and the blue sky more than others do. After the publications of several documentaries on the Taliban, Osama Bin Laden and women's rights in the region, Afghan-born American author Khaled Hosseini stepped onto the fictional world and in 2003 published his first novel “The Kite Runner” in which the writer managed to depict the real life of his people. After the breakthrough of the book among readers, Hosseini created the next two successful fictions “A Thousand Splendid Suns” and “And the Mountains Echoed” referring to Afghan culture, traditions and manners. All three novels have celebrated the true human relations observing the society from different angles and the author's major assistant in fulfilling this honorable task to represent the tales he heard and events he witnessed.

Khaled Hosseini was born in 1965 in Kabul and his parents were educated people, his mother taught Farsi and history at a girls' high school and his father was a diplomat for Afghanistan's Foreign Ministry. The family moved to Tehran and Paris where father Hosseini conducted his mission. In 1980 they left Paris for a new beginning in San Jose, California, being aware that they might never return to their motherland Afghanistan. In San Jose Khaled Hosseini earned a degree in biology from Santa Clara College, and then continued his education in studying medicine at the University of California, San Diego. Khaled Hosseini practiced medicine for over ten years until a year and a half after the release of “The Kite Runner” he quit this field and

Conflicted Territories: Representations Of Ethnic And Political Disputes In World Literature Dr. Neha Soman, Dr. B. Padmanabhan, 2022-05-24 Conflicted Territories Representations of Ethnic and Political Disputes in World Literature is an attempt to contextualise the diversity and complexity of human territories around the globe through their manifestations in literature and popular culture The unremitting presence of social variables such as indigeneity sovereignty and religion in territorial disputes obfuscates the possibility of conflict resolution due to their sensitive and complex traits This complexity is the kernel of this book in which each chapter explores the implications and dissensions of social variables in stifling global territorial crises Critical Pedagogy and the Everyday Classroom Tony Monchinski, 2008-06-28 Critical Pedagogy addresses the shortcomings of mainstream educational theory and practice and promotes the humanization of teacher and student Where Critical Pedagogy is often treated as a discourse of academics in universities this book explores the applications of Critical Pedagogy to actual classroom situations Written in a straight forward concise and lucid form by an American high school teacher drawing examples from literature film and above all the everyday classroom this book is meant to provoke thought in teachers students and education activists as we transform our classrooms into democratic sites From grading to testing from content area disciplines to curriculum planning and instruction from the social construction of knowledge to embodied cognition this book takes the theories behind Critical Pedagogy and illustrates them at work in common classroom environments World Cinema, Theology, and the Human Antonio D. Sison, 2012 Forging an open minded but reasoned dialogue between nine acclaimed titles of world cinema and a range of theological perspectives that touch on the theme of human experience World Cinema Theology and the Human offers fresh portals of insight for the interdisciplinary area of Theology and Film In Sison's approach it is the cinematic representation of vivid humanity not necessarily propositional statements about God and religion that lays down a bridge to a conversation with theology Thus the book's project is to look for the divine presence written not on tablets of stone but on tablets of human hearts depicted on screen by way of audiovisual language Seeking to redress the interdisciplinary's narrow predilection for Hollywood blockbusters the book casts its net wider to include a culturally diverse selection of case studies from festival gems such as Singapore's Be With Me and South Africa's Yesterday to widely acclaimed sleeper hits such as Britain's Slumdog Millionaire and New Zealand's Whale Rider The book will appeal to scholars of theology and religious cultural studies interested in the Theology Religion Film interface and because of its commitment to an examination of film qua film a crossover readership from film studies Forgiveness and Reconciliation Ani Kalayjian, Raymond F. Paloutzian, 2009-07-21 We all long for peace within ourselves families communities countries and throughout the world We wonder what we can do about the multitude of conflicts currently wreaking havoc across the globe and the continuous reports of violence in communities as well as within families Most of the time we contemplate solutions beyond our reach and overlook a powerful tool that is at our disposal forgiveness As a genocide survivor I know something about it As the genocide unfolded in Rwanda in 1994 I was devastated by what I believed to be the inevitable deaths of my loved ones The news that my parents and my seven siblings had indeed been killed was simply unbearable Anger and bitterness became my daily companions Likewise I continued to wonder how the Hutus and Tutsis in Rwanda could possibly reconcile after one of the most horrendous genocides of the 20th century It was not until I came to understand the notion of forgiveness that I was able to see the light at the end of the tunnel Common wisdom suggests that forgiveness comes after a perpetrator makes a genuine apology This wisdom informs us that in the aftermath of a wrongdoing the offender must acknowledge the wrong he or she has done express remorse express an apology commit to never repeating said harm and make reparations to the extent possible Only then can the victim forgive and agree to never seek revenge

Resistance and Literature in a Global Context Prakash Chandra Pradhan, 2025-02-24 The comprehensive volume delves into the discursive valences and contingencies of resistance It examines key issues and situations within the complex power dynamics of various cultures societies nations and ethnicities It explores the varying meanings of resistance in different contexts with analyses of select literary texts from various works of literature worldwide that range from Tribal writings in English and Nepalese literature to British literature and American literature It evaluates various factors including structure situation context culture agency place motives ideology and oppression within the discourse of resistance It emphasizes the cultural relevance of the study of resistance across a range of fields such as postcolonialism feminism ecocriticism gender relations and sexuality myth and folklore existentialism cultural studies rural feminism trauma theory and violence globalization ethnicity and identity child trafficking and third gender issues subalternity and marginality The book covers the genres of novels poetry autobiography and short stories It investigates the potency of these literary forms as cultural expressions of resistance It is an essential read for students researchers and teachers worldwide who are enthusiastic and curious about the meanings and contexts of resistance and its representations in literature
