A challenge is something that is difficult to do but that you need or want to do. A challenge may refer to an act in the future or to something you have already done.

It will be a real challenge for me to run a marathon in under four hours.

An achievement is something difficult or exceptional that you manage to do. Einstein's achievements in the field of physics are incredible.

5 battle – struggle

Both battle and struggle describe a situation in which someone is trying very hard to deal with something difficult. However, we usually use battle only when we are fighting against something that is hurting or destroying us.

I finally passed the exam but it was a real struggle.
