Contesting and Constructing International Perspectives in Global Education R. Reynolds, D. Bradbery, J. Brown, K. Carroll, D. Donnelly, K. Ferguson-Patrick, S. Macqueen, 2015-02-27 This volume addresses the need for an international perspective on global education and provides alternate voices to the theme of global education. The editors asked international educators in different contexts to indicate how their own experience of global education addresses the broad and contested concepts associated with this notion. Following the lead of the internationally acknowledged authors from North America, Europe, Africa, Australia and Asia, perspectives were provided on a wide variety of contexts including tertiary education and teacher education, various pedagogies for global education including digital pedagogies and curriculum development at school, tertiary and community levels. Contesting and Constructing International Perspectives in Global Education explores the tensions inherent in discussions of global education from a number of facets including spatial, pedagogical, temporal, social and cultural and provides critical, descriptive and values-laden interpretations. The book is divided into five sections: Temporal and Spatial Views of Global Education, Telling National Stories of Global Education, Empowering Citizens for Global Education, Deconstructing Global Education and Transforming Curricula for Global Education. It is envisaged as a starting point for a stronger international conception of global education and a way to build a conversation for the future of global education in a neo-liberal and less internationally confident time.

As young children will become the next generation of adults, it is vital that they are educated about sustainability issues so that they can learn to make informed decisions and take positive action for a sustainable world. Teachers are ideally placed to educate for sustainability issues and indeed have a responsibility to do so. However, they often lack support and experience in this area and constraints of current curriculum priorities can inhibit Education for Sustainability being taught effectively in many classrooms. Educating for Sustainability in Primary Schools: Teaching for the Future addresses this problem by showing how Education for Sustainability can be developed within and across all areas of the primary curriculum in the Australian and New Zealand contexts. The book provides a range of educational approaches and examples of activities to support teachers in addressing national requirements for teaching the major primary curriculum learning areas while simultaneously educating for sustainability. This integrative approach to primary education can promote knowledge of positive attitudes towards and suitable action for sustainability in relevant, meaningful, enjoyable and creative ways. This book is a valuable resource for all primary teachers who wish to make a real difference to educating children for the future. Describing Learning Australian Council for Educational Research, 1997 Major changes in the emphases of education programs in Australian schools have occurred since 1986. The states and territories collaborated to define the general content for a national curriculum in eight key learning areas. At the same time, they developed a common framework for describing what students have learned in relation to that curriculum. This report presents a comprehensive picture of the key people, decisions, events, problems and successes as the states and territories embarked on making the new outcomes-based approach a reality for teachers and students. The book contains a detailed chapter from each state and territory education system, results from a 1996 national survey of principals and teachers, commentary and insights collected from teachers during school visits and evidence and examples of best practice implementation strategies. A Critical History of Health, Sport, and Physical Education Michelle Gorzanelli, Jorge Knijnik, 2025-07-01 This book fills a gap in literature by generating a combined history of Physical Education, PE, School Sport, SS and Health Education, HE, in New South Wales NSW public schools from 1880 to 2024. It includes broad discussions on how political issues such as the World Wars influenced i) the PE curriculum which was used as a medium to prepare a fit army, ii) the school sport system which acted as an expression of national strength via showcasing sporting prowess on the international stages of the Olympic Games and iii) the health education curriculum which addressed infectious diseases resulting from poor hygiene associated with poverty. The book also adopts a socio-cultural perspective to the constructs of PE, SS and HE curricula and highlights significant local, national and international historical events and issues.
