Handbook of Urban and Community Forestry in the Northeast John E. Kuser, 2013-11-11 With the emergence of urban and community forestry as the fastest growing part of our profession in the last 15 years the need for a book such as this inevitably developed The Society of American Foresters urban forestry working group counts 32 or more universities now offering courses in this subject and the number is growing For the last several years I have coordinated a continuing education urban forestry course at Rutgers for nonmatriculated students Registrants have included arborists shade tree commissioners landscape architects city foresters environmental commissioners park superintendents and others whose jobs involve care and management of trees The course was started by Bob Tate in 1980 around a core of managerial subjects such as inventories budgets and public relations After Bob left in 1984 to join Asplundh and later to start his own prosperous business in California the course languished after it exhausted the local market for those subjects

Applications of Remote Sensing Data in Mapping of Forest Growing Stock and Biomass José Aranha, 2021-09-01 This Special Issue SI entitled Applications of Remote Sensing Data in Mapping of Forest Growing Stock and Biomass resulted from 13 peer reviewed papers dedicated to Forestry and Biomass mapping characterization and accounting The papers authors presented improvements in Remote Sensing processing techniques on satellite images drone acquired images and LiDAR images both aerial and terrestrial Regarding the images classification models all authors presented supervised methods such as Random Forest complemented by GIS routines and biophysical variables measured on the field which were properly georeferenced The achieved results enable the statement that remote imagery could be successfully used as a data source for regression analysis and formulation and in this way used in forestry actions such as canopy structure analysis and mapping or to estimate biomass This collection of papers presented in the form of a book brings together 13 articles covering various forest issues and issues in forest biomass calculation constituting an important work manual for those who use mixed GIS and RS techniques
