INTRODUCTION

1.1 Background

The use of tunnels in major transportation schemes has increased considerably during the last decade especially in mountain areas. The underground space development is a better option to be considered in the long run. Subsurface construction is technically viable and has fewer problems with environmental impacts, which are the major points of considerations in any development projects today. Especially, construction by means of tunnelling has rapidly become popular in the mountain area of reduced travel time and money. In the Himalayan region, there is a huge potential of underground constructions for transport systems and hydropower. Tunnelling through the tectonically active Himalayan region is a problem in itself. The geology of the rock mass tunnelled through, plays an important role in determining the stability of a tunnel during and after construction.
