SECTION 3 POWER TRAIN SYSTEM

GROUP 1 STRUCTURE AND FUNCTION

1. POWER TRAIN COMPONENT OVERVIEW

The power train consists of the following components:

Transmission
Front, center and rear drive shafts
Front and rear axles

Engine power is transferred to the transmission through the torque converter.

The transmission is a hydraulically engaged four speed forward, three speed reverse countershaft type power shift transmission. A super-duty type parking brake is located on the transmission.

The transmission outputs through universal joints to three drive shaft assemblies. The front drive shaft is a telescoping shaft which drives the front axle. The front axle is mounted directly to the loader frame. The front axle is equipped with conventional differential as standard (option: Limited slip, Hyd lock differential).

The rear axle is equipped with conventional differential as standard (option: Limited slip differential). The rear axle is mounted on an oscillating plant.

The power transmitted to front axle and rear axle is reduced by the pinion gear and ring gear of differential. It then passes from the differential to the sun gear shaft (axle shaft) of front drive.

The power of the sun gear is reduced by a planetary mechanism and is transmitted through the planetary hub to the wheel.
