Under the Trump policy, migrant children are separated from their parents at the border and placed in the custody of the Office of Refugee Resettlement, or ORR, which is run by the US Department of Health and Human Services. Some have questioned whether ORR has the ability to handle this influx of young children and want Congress to take action and increase the accountability and transparency of ORR and the Department of Health and Human Services.

16. What about you? Do you support or oppose Congress taking action to increase the accountability and transparency of ORR and the Department of Health and Human Services? [IF SUPPORT/OPPOSE] Is that strongly [SUPPORT/OPPOSE] or just somewhat?

Now I'm going to read you some statements made by people who want Congress to take action to increase the accountability and transparency of the Office of Refugee Resettlement and the Department of Health and Human Services, and I'd like to know how convincing you find each one. Here's the first statement... Is this a convincing reason for Congress to take action to make the Office of Refugee Resettlement and the Department of Health and Human Services more accountable and transparent, or is it not convincing?
